Overview

2016 Forbes Under 30 Summit: Boston

The Under 30 Summit has always been in a class of its own—with four days of motivating panels, pitch contests, philanthropy, music and food festivals, parties and beyond—but this year, we’re taking it to the next level.

From October 16-19th, 5,000 current and future leaders of every field will converge on Boston for the 2016 Under 30 Summit—the world’s greatest gathering of young entrepreneurs and game changers.

For the first time, four content stages – Tech, Create, Capital and Impact – will be hosted at notable universities throughout the city, encompassing dedicated programming and the greatest innovations across Science and Technology, Finance and Investing, Media and Creativity, and Policy and Social Good. Additionally, a VIP track for Forbes 30 Under 30 honorees, will be held at Boston’s historic Faneuil Hall. We’re transforming Boston’s City Hall Plaza into a central hub for attendees from all five tracks to network, view demonstrations and performances, unwind at a beer garden or VIP lounge, and so much more.

The Under 30 Summit will kick off with the U30 Music Festival. We’re excited to announce another all-star line-up this year: Jason Derulo, Halsey, Gallant, and Delta Rae. Known for their sold out stadiums, Billboard chart-toppers and mainstay performances on the festival circuit, they’re sure to kick off the summit with a bang.

Serving as the definitive place to network, collaborate, recruit and exchange ideas of the future, the 2016 Under 30 Summit will do it all.

Life and Death and Ebola

The best advice Katie Meyler ever got? "Get over yourself--it's not about you." Those words not only inspired the social entrepreneur to launch a much-needed all-girls school in Liberia in 2013, but when the Ebola crisis hit the African country the following year, they became her guiding principle. Meyler shares her story of how she fought to keep her More than Me school open while literally staring down death.
